What investment services and advice can you provide me?

We offer investment advisory services to retail investors, which principally include individuals and high-net-worth individuals (in addition to pension and profit sharing plans). Our discretionary authority to buy, sell, and otherwise transact in securities in your account(s) is granted in our advisory agreement and is only limited by your reasonable restrictions or our mutual ability to terminate the advisory agreement. When providing non-discretionary advisory services, you make the ultimate decision regarding the purchase or sale of investments. Our advice is not limited to certain types of investments, though we generally recommend mutual funds and exchange traded funds when constructing portfolios. Our financial planning services entail the preparation of a financial plan based on your specific financial situation that includes a recommended course of action or activity to take if you decide to implement our recommendations. We do not offer proprietary products. We do not have a minimum account size or investment amount to retain or maintain our advisory services.

Regular monitoring of your account(s) is included as part of our standard investment management services, with reviews typically occurring at least annually. It is important that you keep us apprised of your financial situation so we can conduct more frequent reviews if necessary.

More detailed information about our services may be found in Items 4 and 7 of our Form ADV Part 2A brochure, available at https://adviserinfo.sec.gov/firm/brochure/289256.

- "Given my financial situation, should I choose an investment advisory service? Why or why not?"
- "How will you choose investments to recommend to me?"
- "What is your relevant experience, including your licenses, education and other qualifications? What do these qualifications mean?"

What fees will I pay?

Retail investors will generally incur the following fees charged by us: (i) an annual asset-based fee that generally ranges between 0.50% and 1.00% of assets designated to be under our management, or (ii) a monthly flat fee that generally ranges from $600 to $1,400 per month based on the nature and complexity of your financial situation in consideration of personal and/or business financial planning. Asset-based are charged quarterly in advance, and are specifically based on the period-end value of assets under our management during the applicable billing period. To the extent a third-party adviser is utilized, we generally pay the fees charged by such third-party adviser on your behalf unless you have otherwise agreed to pay such fees directly to the third-party adviser. In addition, retail investors will also generally incur the following fees and costs charged by third-parties: custodian fees, account maintenance fees, product expenses such as internal expense ratios, and transaction charges.

When we charge an asset-based fee, the more assets there are in your account(s), the more you will pay in fees, and we may therefore have an incentive to encourage you to increase the assets in your account(s). When we charge flat fees that are based on the complexity of your financial situation, we are incentivized to add or read-in additional complexity to your financial situation.

You will pay fees and costs whether you make or lose money on your investments. Fees and costs will reduce any amount of money you make on your investments over time. Please make sure you understand what fees and costs you are paying.

More detailed information about our fees and costs may be found in Item 5 of our Form ADV Part 2A brochure.

Relationship Summary

What are your legal obligations to me when acting as my investment adviser? How else does your firm make money and what conflicts of interest do you have?

When we act as your investment adviser, we have to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours. At the same time, the way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests. You should understand and ask us about these conflicts because they can affect the investment advice we provide you. Here are some examples to help you understand what this means.

The custodian and third-party adviser we recommend provide us with various products and services that are intended to directly benefit you, us, or both of us. To the extent the custodian or third-party adviser provide us products or services that don't directly benefit you, this creates an incentive to recommend that custodian and third-party adviser. To learn how we address this incentive, please refer to Item 10 and Item 12 of our ADV Part 2A brochure.

To the extent you purchase an insurance product from one of our financial professionals through their affiliation with an insurance company, you will pay an ordinary and customary commission. This creates a conflict of interest due to the additional compensation that will be received. To learn how we address this incentive, please refer to Item 10 of our ADV Part 2A brochure.

We are under common control with Practice Financial Group, LLC ("Practice Financial Group"), a separate but affiliated accounting firm. Since Practice Financial Group charges additional fees in consideration of the accounting services it provides, we have a financial incentive to recommend Practice Financial Group for your accounting needs. This creates a conflict of interest. To learn how we address this incentive, please refer to Item 10 of our Form ADV Part 2A brochure.

How do your financial professionals make money?

Our financial professionals are compensated based on an agreed-upon annual salary in addition to a percentage of the revenue generated from the accounts they service directly. They are not compensated based on the sale of a particular product and do not earn commissions except in connection with the sale of insurance products, which will typically generate an ordinary and customary commission earned by the financial professional that sold such products.

Do you or your financial professionals have a legal or disciplinary history?
